Officials-out to 'correct' census

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Political and civic leaders in Madison and St. Clair counties are continuing in their attempts to contest preliminary figures from the U.S. Census Bureau showing a decline in population in southwestern Illinois.

Such figures are used by the state and federal governments in determining congressional districts and the type and amount of aid local governments get. The figures are also used by business interests planning for the future.

The census count released in late August, and early September showed major declines since 1980 in Granite City and Madison, a slight decline in Venice, and a smaller-than-expected increase in Pontoon Beach.

Officials have 15 working days, exclusive of holidays, from the time they received their population figures to contest them. All the Quad City area cities and townships received their projected figures by Sept. 6.

The Granite City total shrank from

Charles Kofron, chairman of the Population Subcommittee for the association, said the figures appear to be pretty accurate, but he criticized the practice of releasing preliminary population figures, saying they 'do nothing but confuse people.'

36,815 to 32,701, Madison's from 5,301 to 4,542 and Venice's from 3,480 to 3,450. Pontoon Beach's total rose from 3,336 to 3,945.

Madison County's population decreased from 247,664 to 246,762 and St. Clair's fell from 267,531 to 261,084.

Illinois fell from 11,427,429 a decade ago to 11,325,227, a decline of .89 percent.

The figures are considered preliminary, but become permanent if not contested.

Local leaders throughout the Metro

East met last week in Edwardsville to discuss the census count.

A provisional estimate made in January 1990 by the St. Louis Chapter of the American Statistical Association pegged Madison County's population at 251,200 and St. Clair County's at 267,500.

Charles Kofron, chairman of the Population Subcommittee for the association, said the preliminary census figures appear to be pretty accurate. But he criticized the Census Bureau's practice of releasing preliminary population figures, saying they 'do nothing but confuse people.'

Vicki Klutts, district manager for the Census Bureau, said the figures released are accurate 'but not complete.' She said the bureau's census boundaries in some instances may not correspond to the actual political boundaries.

The bureau's figures also may not include such people as servicemen stationed overseas at the time of the census and people who maintain winter homes in Florida and were not at their regular residence on April 1.

James Pennekamp, executive director of the Leadership Council of Southwestern Illinois, said the area leaders were given information on how to argue their case to the Census Bureau. Only the chief elected officer of each municipality or township, or his designee, can protest to the bureau, Pennekamp said.

Pennekamp and R.C. Bush, executive director of the Tri-Cities Area Chamber of Commerce, said the local leaders were

Granite promotes policemen Come as result of captain's retirement

GRANITE CITY — One police officer retired and three others were promoted Tuesday, Police Chief Don Knight announced.

Following through on his previously announced plans to retire, Capt. Glenn Wright is leaving the department after more than 22 years. He had come up through the ranks and was a captain, served at various times as head of the detective, service, patrol and operations divisions.

To replace Wright, Lt. Dave Ruebhausen was promoted to captain. Most recently the shift commander of the 3 to 11 p.m. shift in the patrol division, Ruebhausen has also served as a detective and a detective sergeant.

"I'm very pleased to have Dave as one of my captains," Knight said. "He's come up through the ranks and is a very, very good officer."

Ruebhausen joined the department in 1977.

Sgt. Steve Willaredt was promoted to lieutenant to replace Ruebhausen. Since joining the department in 1973, he has served as a patrolman, detective and most recently as a sergeant in the patrol division.

"I'm not sure which shift Steve will be taking, but I feel very comfortable with his promotion and feel he is very qualified," Knight said.

To replace Willaredt, Det. Mike Gagich was promoted to sergeant and will join the patrol division. Gagich joined the department in 1982 and was most recently a detective.

"Mike's done a very good job as a detective and I'm well satisfied with his promotion," Knight said.

The promotions were made by the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners. Knight said another officer would be moved from the patrol division to replace Gagich as a detective, but that selection had not yet been made.

Wright was to go before the Board of Fire and Police Commissioners earlier this year on a charge of misconduct, but the matter was ultimately handled within the department.

A committee has been formed that will combine the resources of both councils to provide better scouting programs, said Cahokia council executive Jim Winkler. The consolidation committee has decided to sell the Service Center located on Delmar and move to the Piassa Bird Service Center located in Wood River. The Delmar site is a two-story brick home with an unattached brick two-car garage. The lot is 45-by-125 and is just north of Niedringhaus United Methodist Church. Persons interested in purchasing this property should contact Winkler at 376-0656. The new council will serve five counties in southwest Illinois and will include Scout Camps, Sunnen, Warren Lewis, and Flying House.

County building 'basically on schedule'

By John Milazzo
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Despite several minor obstacles recently, work on the new $15.6 million Madison County administration building is "basically on schedule," according to Marty Siglock, site superintendent for the project.

Siglock told the county's Buildings Committee on Monday that workmen for Korte-Flocher Construction Co. of Highland last week poured about 200 yards of concrete for the basement walls and foundation of the building.

Siglock said the foundation work is now about 75 percent complete. He expects workmen to begin setting steel girders for the four-story structure by Oct. 3.

Work on the excavation and foundation had been delayed in August when two buried fuel tanks were discovered. The kerosene tanks and the soil surrounding them have now been removed.

Siglock said the soil was taken to the Waste Management Inc. landfill on Chouteau Island.

After the tanks are cleaned, the excavation contractor probably will sell them for scrap, he said.

Workers at the site also found an old well last week, temporarily halting foundation work. The well has since been pumped out and filled with rock, Siglock said.

The new building is scheduled for completion in about 18 months. It will house 26 county departments with 370 employees.

Also at Monday's meeting, Committee Chairman Herbert "Junior" Milton of Granite City said he expects the committee to begin negotiations with the City of Edwardsville for additional land for a possible parking deck or lot north of the Madison County Courthouse and across Second Street from the administration building construction site.

The committee recently received a study on parking needs prepared by he architectural firm of Leo A. Daly.

The study examined two options for creating 688 parking spaces, the number the firm says the county will need when the building is ready for occupancy.

Both options cited in the study call for uniting county land along Second Street with an adjacent city-owned parking lot.

City officials, meanwhile, have expressed an interest in county buildings along Hillsboro that will be vacated when the new building is completed.

Seizure of 'crack' houses simplified

Gov. James R. Thompson has signed a series of anti-crime and anti-gang bills, including a new drug enforcement initiative streamlining the process that allows law enforcement to seize real-estate property, such as apartment buildings used as "crack" houses.

"Illinois had limited authority that was seldom used involving real property cases. Now, the state will not have to turn these cases over to the federal government but will be able to proceed at the local level."

"The bill also allows cars, trucks and other specific types of property to be seized and forfeited under an efficient non-judicial process."

"With these clearly defined procedures, we should see an increase in drug asset seizures and forfeitures," Thompson said.

Under House Bill 3610, the law enforcement community is directed to work with the local state's attorneys, rather than the courts, to initiate seizures of certain categories of property. The measure also establishes an asset distribution formula that returns most of the proceeds to the seizing agency.

The law is effective immediately.

Thompson also signed the following anti-crime and anti-gang bills:

•House Bill 4053, effective immediately, prohibits the possession and use of cellular telephones on school property. The bill is similar to a measure the governor signed last year. The legislation takes effect

Jan. 1, 1991.

•House Bill 4128, effective Jan. 1, 1991, creates the new offense of vehicular invasion, aimed at "snatch and grab" thieves who force their way into a vehicle to commit a felony.

The bill makes the offense a Class 1 felony.

•House Bill 4129 establishes the crime of aggravated discharge of a firearm, a Class 1 felony, for anyone who shoots into a building known to be occupied or who shoots in the direction of another person or a vehicle known to be occupied. The legislation takes effect immediately.

Plaques assist humane effort

The Madison County Humane Society has announced that plaques to be placed in its new animal shelter are now available for purchase.

The plaques will be located on doors and walls throughout the shelter and can be inscribed with the name of the purchaser, a loved one or a cherished pet.

According to Wendy Porter, vice president of the Humane Society, the plaques are being sold now as a way to raise needed funds for a new shelter.

"Unfortunately, we still seem to be a long way from beginning construction of our new animal shelter, but we are keeping track of all our donors and there will be space for their plaques in the new shelter," Porter said.

She said the plaques have been selling fairly well simply through word of mouth. "One generous person gave us $1,000 for a plaque in memory of his border collie, who had dragged him out of a burning building when he was three years old," Porter said.

The plaques sell for between $50 and $50, depending on their location within the new shelter. The more expensive plaques will receive a more prominent location in the shelter.

The Humane Society currently has approximately $35,000 in its Building Fund.

Porter said much more is needed before construction can begin. The Society's initial goal is $100,000, and Porter said the need for a new animal shelter is becoming more and more urgent.

"On the average, 70 dogs and 30 cats are killed each week at the County Pound. There simply isn't enough space to shelter these animals until loving homes can be found," she said.

"We desperately need help from caring people. No one has to give a lot if everyone gives a little."

Anyone interested in purchasing a plaque or donating to the Madison County Humane Society Building Fund may call 546-4405 or send their tax deductible contribution to the Society at P.O. Box 1, Edwardsville 62025.

Award nominations accepted

Nominations for the 1990 St. Louis Award are being accepted through Oct. 1, William H. Danforth, secretary of the St. Louis Award Committee, said.

The award is given to individuals who have made the most outstanding contribution or have brought the greatest distinction to the metropolitan St. Louis community, said Danforth, chancellor of Washington University. The award was established in 1932 by the late David P. Wohl, a philanthropist.

Background on nominees should be sent by the deadline to the St. Louis Award Committee, Washington University, Box 1081, One Brookings Drive, St. Louis, Mo. 63130-4899.

Last year, the award was presented to Leigh Gerding, former president of Webster University, for the national and international recognition he has brought to St. Louis as educational leader, innovator and promoter of the arts. President George Bush later honored him with the National Medal of Arts for a lifetime of educational and cultural leadership.

Other members of the St. Louis Award Committee are W.L. Hadley Griffin, Mrs. Lee M. Liberman, Elliot H. Stein, Robert Brookings Smith, Leon R. Strauss, Mrs. Monte C. Throdahl and H. Edwin Trusheim.

ILLINOIS HONORS MILITARY RETIREES: The state of Illinois has come out with a new license plate for persons who have retired from the military. Retired Master Sgt. Clifford T. Yarbough puts his new plate on his car. Yarbough

Grants to increase literacy awarded

SPRINGFIELD — Secretary of State and State Literacy Council.

In fiscal year 1991, a total of 99 local and regional adult literacy programs will receive more than $5 million to serve adults who read below the sixth-grade level. The funds are being distributed to a broad range of literacy providers, including adult education agencies, libraries, volunteer organizations, and community-based organizations.

In this area, the money will fund volunteer tutoring programs coordinated by Belleville Area College (Belleville), the St. Clair County Regional Superintendent of Schools (Belleville), State Community College (East St. Louis), Vincent Gray Alternative High School (East St. Louis) and Lewis and Clark Community College (Godfrey).

A sixth grant recipient, the Regional Superintendent of Schools-Monroe/Randolph counties (Chester), will receive $46,611 to maintain a computerized record-keeping system used by literacy programs throughout the state.

All these grant recipients are members of the Metro East Literacy Council, which promotes public awareness and inter-agency cooperation.

The St. Clair County Regional Superintendent of Schools will receive $70,000 for instructional services and library support provided at 50 tutoring sites in St. Clair, Monroe and Randolph counties.

The St. Clair County program cooperates with Monroe-Randolph Counties Regional Superintendent of Schools, Kaskaskia Library System and Metro East Literacy Council in providing services and raising public awareness.

Adults who need reading instruction, businesses that would like to establish workplace programs, and individuals who would like to become volunteer tutors can be linked with the literacy program nearest them by calling the Illinois Literacy Hotline, 1-800-321-9511.

SEARCHING FOR SOLUTIONS

Let's Talk Business

American employers pay more than $132 billion each year to provide health insurance for their employees. For many companies, this is the fastest growing cost of doing business. It has put some companies, especially small businesses, on the critical list.

Hospitals and physicians understand this dilemma. They buy health insurance for their employees, too. They know it's no longer just a "fringe" benefit. As we continue to search for solutions to this problem, it's important to understand the cause.

In recent years, hospitals have been forced to shift a portion of the cost of caring for the elderly and the poor to privately insured and self-paying patients. Why? Because Medicare and Medicaid don't pay their fair share. In fact, they pay hospitals and physicians less than what it costs to provide care.

If hospitals and physicians did not have to provide such deep discounts to the Medicare and Medicaid programs, charges to ALL payors would be reduced. This would moderate the cost of health insurance...and create a healthier bottom line for many businesses.

Hospitals, physicians and business leaders share many of the same goals. All of us want high quality health care. All of us want to reduce health care costs. We think it's time to work together on this problem. Because health care...both who will receive it, and who will pay for it...is everybody's business.

IMPORTANT NOTICE TO

MADISON COUNTY RESIDENTS

IF YOUR HOUSEHOLD WAS PLACED ON THE 12% REAPP PLAN LAST WINTER, TO REMAIN ON THE PLAN, YOU MUST RECERTIFY DURING THE PERIOD OF SEPTEMBER 1, 1990 - OCTOBER 26, 1990.

If you do not submit a recertification application by October 26, 1990 your household will be dropped from the Plan. Also, failure to recertify will result in your having to pay your whole bill this winter.

Recertification is an income eligibility check to determine if the household remains income-eligible to receive REAPP benefits. Approval of a recertification informs the households and the utilities that the household is eligible to participate if it has fulfilled program obligations.

To recertify, you must contact your Local Township or Agency where you applied last year for an appointment.

When you go to complete your recertification application, bring proof of the household's last 30 days' income, your latest utility bills and proof of social security cards.

Persons having general questions regarding the REAPP 12% Recertification Period, may contact the Madison County Community Development Energy Assistance Office at (618) 692-6200, Ext. 5105 or the State of Illinois Energy Hotline at (1-800) 252-8643.

'Beep, beep, beep' — Is a doctor being called, or a plumber?

By Lois Kendall
Staff writer

A hush settles over the movie theater as the lights dim and the credits begin to roll on the screen. Suddenly a shrill "beep, beep, beep" breaks the silence, and all eyes turn away from the action and toward the offending noise.

The guilty party leaps from his seat and scurries out to the lobby to look for a phone.

"He must be some VIP — a heart transplant surgeon or a stock market mogul," the crowd muses collectively.

He's actually a plumber. His emergency is a broken toilet.

It's the '90s, and the days are long gone when the only people sporting pagers are medical or financial bigwigs.

Today, the pager could just as easily be a construction worker, a computer engineer or a salesman.

"People are starting to get more comfortable with today's more sophisticated technology, and they're wearing pagers," says Terrence Dougherty, president of Abbott Services, a local paging service.

Abbott is a non-profit company owned by Abbott Ambulance and by Barnes and St. Louis University hospitals.

"Pagers have been on the market since the '60s, when they were big and clunky, about the size of half a brick," Dougherty says.

"At first it was mainly a medical market — physicians and those in high-priority services. Today pagers come as small as a fat fountain pen, and all types of people use them."

Medical professionals still make up the bulk of the market, Dougherty says, including doctors, nurses, transplant teams, paramedics and even hospital public relations personnel.

A growing segment of the pager market is the business and service community — firefighters, police, real estate agents, repairmen, plumbers, electricians, sewer cleaners, lawn services, tow-truck drivers and journalists.

"Small-business owners can be sure they won't miss a call while they're away from a phone, and they can communicate with their workmen on the job," Dougherty says. "Secretaries can remind their bosses of appointments when they're out of the office."

Pagers are actually miniature radio receivers, he says. Some simply beep, alerting the pager of a message. Some have a small screen to display the phone number of the caller.

Others have a larger screen, which displays the entire message, storing up to 80 characters of type. There are even models available that don't beep at all, but simply vibrate.

"It's a burgeoning industry — the growth is amazing," Dougherty says. "It started taking off in the mid-'70s, and the technology keeps improving all the time. We have thousands of pagers out in the metropolitan area, and we're one of the smaller companies in town."

The largest company in the United States is Metromedia Paging, a subsidiary of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. Gene Haley, Metromedia sales manager, says his firm has more than 800,000 paging customers nationwide.

New categories of customers are emerging every day, he says.

"A single mother with two or three kids can be in constant contact with them for about 50 cents a day," Haley says.

"The day-care center can reach her at any time so that she can make the decisions regarding her children's health and well-being."

"The expectant mother gives her husband a pager so she can readily locate him when it's time," Haley says.

Even farmers are wearing beepers.

"When the farmer is two miles out in the field and his wife needs him, she simply picks up the phone and dials his number, his pager beeps and he comes in," Haley says.

The beeper explosion occurred about three years ago, Haley says. He cites increased competition in industry as the reason.

"It's no longer a question of just the product or service offered, but of how well the customer is served," Haley says.

"When I needed an air conditioner repairman, I called three places. One called me back in 10 minutes, so I did business with him."

"You always want to be in touch with your business, even when you're away from it."

Many pagers utilized 24 hours a day

By Lois Kendall
Staff writer

Denise Dancy, manager of St. Louis University Hospital's media center, is on call 24 hours a day for four months of the year. During those times, she wears a cigarette-pack-sized pager on her belt.

"I recently had it go off when I was in church," Dancy says. "Fortunately, the organist had started playing, and only those around me heard it. I rushed outside. It was so embarrassing. Who wants 300 people to turn around and look at you?"

Most of Dancy's calls are inquiries about a patient's condition, either from the police, the media or the patient's family.

Her pager alerts her with a short, quiet beep that grows increasingly louder until she responds. The caller's phone number flashes on a tiny screen on her receiver.

"I'm not nearly as relaxed at home when I'm on beeper duty," says Dancy, a west county resident. "Sometimes I get beeped in the middle of the night, sometimes when I'm at the grocery store. What do you do when you have ice cream in your cart and you get beeped?"

Last Thanksgiving, Dancy was celebrating the holiday at her sister-in-law's house in St. Charles when a St. Louis police officer was shot.

She spent the next two hours on the telephone answering media calls about his condition. "I made seven calls back to St.

Louis — and they were all toll calls," she says with a rueful laugh.

While her pager's compact size, 2-by-3-inches, makes it easy to carry around, it also is easily mistaken for a pager.

"Once I lost it in my house and had to have the service call me so I could find it," Dancy says. She followed the "beep, beep, beep" under her living room coffee table. One of her colleagues had to follow the same procedure when she dropped her pager in a snowbank.

Sometimes, missing a pager can have serious consequences, particularly when the wearer is a patient, Dancy says.

"One lady who was waiting for a heart transplant went to the store to get batteries for her beeper," Dancy relates. "While she was there a donor became available, but they couldn't reach her because her batteries were dead."

As soon as the woman popped in the fresh batteries, her machine was beeping. She answered her pager and rushed straight to the hospital.

Nancy Noedel, heart transplant coordinator at St. Louis University Medical Center, says all transplant patients wear a pager while they're on the waiting list for a heart donor.

"We started using them in 1986, when the waiting list got longer," Noedel says. "Many patients have to wait six to 12 months, so this way they don't have to sit around at home waiting for a phone call. It is important to be able to reach them as soon as possible to set things up."

One man had just finished his dinner at a restaurant, and was on his way back to his home in Kirkville when he was beeped.

"We flew him directly into the hospital — we have to get the patient here within one to two hours. Timing is so important, because we only have two to four hours after a heart is taken out to get it in and pumping," Noedel says.

Noedel wears her own pager 24 hours a day when she is on call to coordinate an emergency transplant team. Like Dancy, she has often been beeped under unusual circumstances.

"I've been beeped at restaurants, birthday parties, even at my own wedding shower," Noedel says. "I've had it go off at the symphony and at the baseball game."

"One time I was at the grocery store and had my cart half-full when I got beeped. I left, made four phone calls, and when I returned a half-hour later someone had emptied my cart. I had to start all over again," she says.

But Noedel, a south St. Louisan, is used to interruptions in her home life.

"Three out of five members of our family wear pagers," she says. "When a beeper goes off at a holiday gathering, everybody scrambles up to answer the call."

Harassment by Simon alleged, denied

By Edward T. Hearn
States News Service

WASHINGTON — U.S. Sen. Paul Simon's effort to help a campaign contributor and fund raiser settle an alleged $5 million debt with a California savings and loan was "downright harassment," U.S. Rep. Lynn Martin said Sept. 12.

Martin, Simon's Republican opponent in the fall election, said new reports that the Illinois Democrat made several phone calls to an S&L executive showed "incredibly bad judgment" and that he should never have intervened in the case.

Simon press secretary David Carle denied the senator made more than one call, adding that Martin's latest comments and insistence on a Senate Ethics Committee probe were "politically motivated at a time when she is far behind in the polls."

"It's sad to see the committee abused for political reasons in such a direct way," Carle said. Martin's statements came after the Chicago Sun-Times reported that officials of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. had documents showing Simon placed five or six phone calls on behalf of Chicago developer Stephen Ballis.

The article said FDIC's internal memos apparently contradicted statements by Simon that he placed only one call to the president of First Nationwide Financial Corp. in San Francisco. "One phone call is incredibly bad judgment," Martin said. "Five or six calls is downright harassment."

A spokesman for S. Rep. Stan Parris, R-Va., said he has ordered staff to look into the Simon-Ballis case as part of an overall S&L probe and turned over the FDIC documents to a Sun-Times reporter upon request.

Parris is the ranking Republican on the House Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs oversight subcommittee that has been investigating the S&L scandal. Overall, S&Ls in the nation are expected to cost each U.S. taxpayer an estimated $2,000.

According to previous reports, Ballis was in default to Pathway Financial Corp., a failed Chicago savings and loan, for more than $5 million.

First Nationwide, after acquiring Pathway in 1988 in part with taxpayer dollars, was planning to sue Ballis in order to foreclose on 19 Chicago condominiums his company jointly owned.

Simon said he made one phone call for Ballis, who sought his help in settling with First Nationwide out of court.

In an interview Sept. 12, Ballis said newspapers have consistently misreported key facts. He said he was never in default and never owed First Nationwide $5 million. "All they could do was take the title (to the condominium)," he said.

First Nationwide President John M. Devine has said his contact with Simon in no way influenced the handling of the Ballis case, which reportedly dragged on for nearly two years before Simon got involved.

Martin, meanwhile, said she would ask the FDIC to turn over its files to her and would continue to press the ethics panel to investigate Simon's actions.

"I think it's time for Simon to remedy a situation that is going quickly awry," Martin said.

Carle said Martin's efforts to associate Simon with the $500 billion S&L scandal was an attempt to overcome a Chicago Tribune poll showing her trailing Simon by 25 percentage points.

Earthquake preparedness bills now law in Illinois

SPRINGFIELD — Gov. James B. Thompson has signed bills requiring state and local agencies to better prepare for earthquakes, based on a report of the governor's Earthquake Preparedness Task Force.

The report called for increased efforts to prepare for a major quake from the New Madrid and Wabash River Valley faults. Madison County is in a high-risk area that covers the southern third of the state.

One of the new laws allows for agreements between the state Emergency Services and Disaster Agency and medical supply and equipment firms, to make sure supplies are available immediately after a disaster. Madison County-ESDA coordinator Lanny Darr said the county's new preparedness plan would cover earthquakes and other potential disasters.

The Illinois State Police and the governor's task force plan to hold public meetings on earthquake preparedness in Madison County "before the end of November," although the dates and locations have not been announced yet, Darr added.

Some have predicted a quake will hit this region on Dec. 3.

The Madison County ESDA has brochures and tapes available on earthquakes, Darr said.

The other bill newly signed requires homeowners insurance carriers selling policies in 29 "high-risk" counties, including Madison, to inform potential buyers of the availability of quake coverage.

The task force projected that a major earthquake of 7.6 or more could cause severe damage in this area.

Hardee's collecting clothes for children

Hardee's and KMOV-TV, Channel 4, are teaming up during September to collect children's clothes for distribution to area low-income families.

The "For Kids' Sake Clothes Closet" collection containers will be set up in all 108 area Hardee's restaurants during the month.

The Madison County Urban League will collect the donated children's clothing from the Hardee's restaurants and distribute them to qualified recipients during October.

In outlying communities in Missouri and Illinois, other community action agencies will collect the donated clothes and distribute them to low-income families. The public is encouraged to drop off clean, new or used, children's clothing at any area Hardee's.

"This effort represents an effective utilization of resources to tackle a problem confronting many in our community," said James Buford, president of the Urban League of Metropolitan St. Louis.

"Meeting the basic needs of food, clothing, shelter and other essentials is becoming more and more difficult for more and more people struggling to make ends meet. This program is one tangible way we can address this issue."

The "For Kids' Sake Clothes Closet" will take place in the city of St. Louis; the Illinois counties of St. Clair, Madison, Monroe, Jersey, Marion, Jefferson, Washington, Perry, Randolph, Fayette, Clinton, Macoupin, Bond, Montgomery and Greene; and the Missouri counties of St. Louis, St. Charles, Jefferson, Perry, Madison, Washington, Lincoln, Franklin, Warren, St. Francois and Crawford.

"The Clothes Closet project is a dynamic way for us to get involved with the community," said Jim Lowdermilk, senior marketing manager for Hardee's Area IV.

"We believe the Clothes Closet will be a success because one of our 108 restaurants is convenient to just about everyone in Missouri and Illinois," he said.

Bridge to open by Christmas

By Kevin Foster
Staff writer

COLUMBIA — Completion of the eastbound span of the Jefferson Barracks Bridge is on the Illinois Department of Transportation's Christmas list.

Officials hope to have it done in December or early next year. "Things are going real well," said Dan Ables, the resident engineer for IDOT.

"We've finished the approach spans and are starting to pour the archway spans."

Ables said heat and humidity have taken a toll on the crew of 70 men and women working on the bridge. "It has had an effect on us, but we're still working."

Ables said there have been no injuries on the project.

The westbound span of the bridge, open to traffic, was completed in 1964.

The total cost for both bridges will be $70 million.

They carry Interstate 255 across the Mississippi River, connecting Illinois and Missouri.

Macedonians set October dance

Plans for a fall dance to be held at the Polish Hall in Madison on Saturday, Oct. 6, were discussed at the August meeting of the Macedonian Culture Society.

Members also decided the Balkan Band from Chicago will provide music for the event. The Balkan Band plays traditional music from Macedonia, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria, Greece and other Balkan countries, it was reported.

Mattie and George Sotiroff and Jim and Rose Merchoff were welcomed into the club as new members.

A film was presented by Jim Merchoff, showing scenes from his recent trip to Macedonia/Yugoslavia.

Fifty-three years have gone by since Jim Merchoff left Macedonia and was able to return and be reunited with his brother and sister and many other relatives still living there, he said.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Evelyn Moehle, hostess, to conclude the meeting.

Frank Mlinarecs return from Europe

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mlinarec of Benton Street have returned home after a three-week tour of Europe.

While away, the local residents celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary in Paris on Aug. 19.

Before going to Paris, the Mlinarecs spent six days traveling through England on their own, prior to joining a tour group in London.

They crossed the English Channel by ferry to France and then traveled by motorcoach to Paris, then Geneva, Switzerland, and on to Milan, Rome, Florence and Venice in Italy.

From Italy, the vacationers went through the Alps and the Brenner Pass to Innsbruck and to Munich, continuing from there to Heidelberg and Rudesheim and along the Rhine River to Cologne.

Many places the couple visited in Germany, Frank Mlinarec had seen before, as a young man in the 1940s during World War II.

Leaving Germany, the visitors traveled to Amsterdam and toured Holland prior to leaving from Amsterdam by air for home on Aug. 30.

The trip was a gift from the couple's daughter and son-in-law, Mary Ann and Bill Bright, and their son, Frank Mlinarec, in observance of their 40th anniversary.

Granite City woman returns from Paris

Jessie Mitchell of Granite City recently returned from a vacation in Paris and reports the Parisian cooking lived up to its reputation with sumptuous five-course dinners.

Mitchell was met in Paris by her son, Michael, and his wife, Cheyenne. The couple live in Tunisia and work in the embassy there and while in Paris had rented an apartment near the Eiffel Tower on the Seine River.

The local resident and her son and daughter-in-law traveled by Metro (subway) to various historic landmarks around Paris, accompanied by Michael and Cheyenne's friend, Catherine, secretary to the French ambassador in Tunisia.

Among many historic sites they visited, the Louvre really stands out, Mitchell said. The museum was built in 1200 A.D. and has some 400,000 priceless artifacts listed in its catalogue, including the original bust of Napoleon and the Mona Lisa, the Granite City visitor said.

Mitchell and her family also enjoyed shopping near the Champs Elysees, where such world-renowned salons of Chanel, Louis Vuitton and Christian Dior are located.

Trio Homemakers hear history of flag

An informative lesson on "Humidity and Environmental Control in the Home" was given by Lucille Sackett and Ivan Graklanoff.

Pat Mitchell gave a report on the "Pennies for Friendship" project and the business session was conducted by Vivian Forshee.

A game was played and prizes were awarded to Marge O'Neil, Bert Cotrell, Doris Anderson, Dorothy King and Pat Mitchell.

Guests are invited to attend the Trio Unit's next meeting set for Oct. 2, starting at noon, at Hope Lutheran Church.

Placards, no fireworks at Simon's SIUE award

By John Milazzo
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — A pro-choice award ceremony at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville on Sunday afternoon failed to produce any fireworks between opposing camps on the abortion issue.

But the event did serve to underscore some subtle differences between the Illinois candidates for U.S. Senate in the November election.

About 40 placard-carrying members of the Glen-Ed Right to Life Committee picketed in front of the university's Communications Building Theater where Sen. Paul Simon, the Democratic incumbent, was to receive an award from the Metro East Coalition for Choice.

Simon could not be at the event to receive the organization's first annual Freedom of Choice Award.

However, Simon's wife, Jeanne, received the award and spoke in his behalf.

Simon said her husband had intended to be on hand for the event but had to return to Washington, D.C., where he was to attend a meeting of the Senate Judiciary Committee on Sunday.

According to Mrs. Simon, that meeting was preliminary to the confirmation on Monday of committee hearings on the confirmation of Judge David H. Souter's nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Jeanne Simon said there is little difference regarding the abortion issue between her husband and Sen. Souter.

Simon's SIUE award

band and U.S. Rep. Lynn Martin, the Republican candidate in the Senate race, "except that Paul has taken a leadership role, and Mrs. Martin has not."

She said Simon is an original sponsor of the "Freedom of Choice Act" that would end a requirement for parental consent or notification when a minor decides to seek an abortion.

Ellen Stimson, chairman of the pro-choice organization that sponsored the event, said the difference between the candidates is a significant one because, "while Mrs. Martin is also pro-choice, she has refused to co-sponsor the new freedom of choice legislation."

Unlike Simon, Martin also refused to sign the pro-choice legal briefs that were sent to the Supreme Court prior to the ruling that reinvested the states with abortion issue authority, Stimson said.

That high court ruling was viewed as a minor victory for right-to-life advocates.

Ann Polka, a right-to-life advocate from Belleville who helped organize Sunday's demonstration, called Simon "one of the biggest enemies of unborn children in this state" but acknowledged that Martin has also adopted a pro-choice stance.

Busy season starts for Eagles Auxiliary

Plans for a variety of projects and programs were reviewed at the Eagles Auxiliary meeting in late August.

A highlight of the evening was the initiation of three new members, Nancy Shipley, Jennie Bilyeu and Susan Puent, who were welcomed by President Ruth Jorgensen.

Jorgensen presided at the business session. Conductor Sharron Case presented the flag and placed the Bible and the motherhood on the altar.

Applications from two candidates were read and the transfer of Judith Weatherford from the Shiloh Auxiliary to the Granite City unit was approved.

Joanna Spencer, Jimmy Dufante, Pund chairman, announced the Octoberfest dinner and dance will be held on Saturday, Sept. 22, with tickets costing $8 per person.

An all-charity Chili Supper will be held at the Eagles Home on Saturday, Nov. 3. Florence Hagnauer reported; and Jeanne Burton announced a craft show on Saturday, Oct. 13. Tables are still available for the show, she said.

Yvonne Gray is now offering necklaces for sale to benefit the ways and means committee, it was announced.

Barb Modrusic, State Project chairman, said a variety show, titled "My Name is Alice," will be presented at the Granite City Eagles Aerie on Oct. 27 and 28. Dinner will be served prior to the Saturday evening show, while the Sunday show will be a matinee-only performance.

Spencer described activities at the Eagles' national convention held in Paducah, Ky. Her husband served as a delegate from the local aerie.

Hagnauer, membership chairman, was escorted to the altar and presented with a red ribbon from the Century Club. The ribbon signified the Granite City Auxiliary had exceeded their quota by five times during the past year.

The Good of the Auxiliary was won by Del Deloney and Hazel Lomax. Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Modrusic, Jeanne Burton and Susan Allen.

'Games Night' for seniors on Monday

The Granite City Council of Seniors will hold an evening of games on Monday, Sept. 24, at the Township Hall, 2060 Delmar Ave.

Doors will open at 5 p.m. and the games will begin at 7 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

Anyone needing transportation is asked to call the Senior Office at 877-1215.

Membership renewals and new members will not be accepted after Sept. 30, it was announced. Please call the Senior Office for details.

Several members attend convention

The Women of the Moose held its annual three-day conference at the Gateway Convention Center in Collinsville in August.

Centralia Chapter was the host group and Dorothy Balaban was in charge. The official visitor was Temple Peer from Mooseheart.

Among those attending from Granite City Chapter 247 were Gerri Speece, Ruth Beck, Pat Macke, Millie Votoupal, Mariah Lipscomb, Jennie Bilyeu, Edna Miller, Clara Johnson and Mariou Wilkerson.

Elkettes like new building idea

The Elkettes, the women's auxiliary of Granite City Elks 1063, voted at their regular September meeting to fully back plans for the lodge to move into the club's new building out on Maryville Road.

Joyce Albers, Elkettes president, presided, and introduced the Elks' Exalted Ruler, Dennis Riggs.

Riggs spoke briefly and said that the lodge's plans to move into the new building was on schedule and the move should be completed by Friday, Nov. 2. He also showed the women samples of the club's new carpeting and announced a plan for members of both the men's and women's group to buy lighting facilities and a metal plate with the donor's name attached to it.

Mrs. Albers asked members to take part in the lodge's County Breakfast planned for Sunday, Oct. 14 from 10 a.m. through 1 p.m. Tickets for the breakfast are: $5 for adults and $2.50 for children.

Winner of the club's 50-50 drawing was Esther Williams.

Charter members of the Elkettes present at the meeting were: Bernice Grzesk, Mildred Branding, Laverne Neunzening, Edith Ryan, Rosalie Jenkins, Helen Bergfeld, Eupie Tarris, Helen Todoroff, Bess Weiss, Mildred Jungels, Dean Graf, Ella Wade, Marian Willaredt and Joyce Barnes.

The meeting was closed with a vote to attend one or more programs at the Fox during the upcoming Fall and Winter season.

The Elkettes were inaugurated in 1956, the year the late Paul "Smiley" Edmonds was Exalted Ruler. Varimyn Edmonds was the first Elkettes president.

"There's nothing wrong with my hearing!"

Heard that one before?

You probably have. First of all, it takes people a long time to realize they have a hearing problem. It happens gradually. Then they think they can compensate for it. You know the signs...the loud television, the cupped ear and, oh yes, the unending "What'd you say?"

It's difficult to live with a hearing loss. Whether it's yours or a loved one's. You don't have to. Most hearing losses can be helped.

Lincoln gets revenge; Harriers shine individually

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — The victory over East St. Louis Lincoln at the Tiger Classic was short-lived for the Warriors.

The Tigers got down to business and ran away from the field at the 32nd Annual Edwardsville Invitational on Saturday at SIUE-Edwardsville. Lincoln placed five runners among the top 22 finishers and posted a whopping 40 point victory (66-106) over second place Mater Dei.

The Warriors finished third with 148 points, but coach Dave McClain was more concerned with his individual times than the final standings.

"We cut anywhere from 20-40 seconds off our times today," said McClain. "And that's a good indication that our kids are getting themselves in the proper condition for the regional. Yes, it was nice to beat Lincoln the other day (on Tuesday), but these needs are nothing more than a steppingstone for real races at the end of the season."

"Our goal is to do well in the conference (Southwestern) meet, the Madison County meet and the regional. If we continue to improve, and do well in those areas, we could find ourselves in a nice position late in the year."

But while the Warriors were more concerned about beating themselves in peak condition for the regional (which will be also held at SIUE), the Tigers were out to show that they're capable of bouncing back after an off day.

effort were: Eric Logan, who finished seventh (17:35); Andre Logan (18th, 18:01); Eddie Bonner (18th, 18:01); and Dorian Jones (22nd, 18:06).

"Running the course a second time really helped a lot of our runners," said Eric Logan. "I improved on my mile (from 5:12 to 5:03) today and that helped me to pace myself better against the field. These two races, coupled with today's victory, have given us a good idea of what we need to do to win the regional."

"Our goal is to run 10-to-15 seconds apart," said Dotson. "That type of execution will allow us to stay close at the front of the pack. The higher we finish, the better our team score will be. Our top three and fifth runners struggled on Tuesday, but that wasn't the case today. Everyone ran tightly together and it helped our point total in the standings."

But, despite finishing third, the Warriors turned in another splendid performance, which only enhances their chances of reaching the state meet this year for the first time since 1970. Lance Reynolds finished 13th in the time of 17:50, but this outing bettered his effort from Tuesday by 39 seconds. Justin Stallings finished in 21st place (18:05), but like Reynolds, improved his time by 25 seconds. "It's funny, but I really didn't feel like I ran as well as my time indicated," said Reynolds. "However, the day was much more competitive today. There were a lot of good runners out there and it created a bigger challenge to complete the course. Warriors hand Quincy first loss

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — The Warriors got back on the winning track with a 2-0 victory over Quincy on Saturday at the Gauntlet.

A pair of first period goals by Brent Dippel and Jeff Stephens handed Granite City (5-2) all the offense it needed. A couple of defensive breakdowns by Quincy (5-1-2), which suffered its first loss of the season, opened the door of opportunity.

"You're on pins-and-needles when you play against Granite City," said Quincy coach Matt Longo. "We made a couple of mistakes deep in our own territory and they capitalized on them. It's typical of a Granite City team to pounce on your mistakes. The margin for error is very slim; you're almost forced to play a perfect game."

A loose ball off the scramble produced a pair of blistering shots that resulted in the only goals of the game. Dippel scored midway through the opening period (9:10) on an unassisted tally, while Stephens answered that score with an unassisted goal of his own nearly eight minutes later. Stephens unleashed on a loose ball in the penalty area and the goalkeeper (Bill Sanders) never had a chance. "You really can't blame their goalkeeper on those goals," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "Those were a pair of bombs that he just couldn't do anything about. It was a nice win for our team against quality competition. And anytime you play a team in the caliber of a Quincy, it's always important to get off to a good start."

PAT RICH and the Warriors frustrated Quincy on Saturday. The Blue Devils were limited to three shots on goal.

From that point on, the con-

Thomas leads Granite to fast start

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Bob Thomas is finally taking out his frustrations on the prep football world.

The senior intercepted a pass, recovered a fumble, rushed for 67 yards and completed 3 of 4 passes for 50 yards in leading Granite City over Belleville West 17-0 last Friday night at Township Stadium.

The victory improved Granite City's record to 3-0 on the young season, while staking the Warriors to their best start since 1986.

"The last three years have been very hard for me," said Thomas. "Our football team struggled, and being the quarterback, I felt most of the blame was on my shoulders. But this has been a rejuvenating season for our program. The players are much stronger physically and mentally."

Thomas took a lot of pride knocking off Belleville West last Friday. After all, the Maroons had won the last three meetings — all by shutout.

"Our team wasn't too fond with the comments their coach (Dick Hood) made when he took over the Belleville West job," said Thomas. "He said that there wasn't much competition in the area besides East St. Louis. So we were out to prove him wrong. It was also a special game for me because I'm a senior and I wanted to go out victoriously."

The Warriors, a guaranteed win the last three years on the schedule, have suddenly set the gridiron on fire. An opening day victory against Cahokia got the ball rolling.

"We kind of felt that Cahokia would take us lightly," said Thomas. "That proved to be our advantage; winning our first game gave our confidence a tremendous boost to get the job done. We're looking to build up our respect in football."

Vianney still No. 1, while Parkway West makes poll

By Jim Woodcock

JOURNAL STAFF WRITER
BELLEVILLE — Coaches on the Suburban Journals soccer poll panel aren't unanimous in their selection of Vianney as the No. 1 high school soccer team in the St. Louis area. But they're close.

The Golden Griffins got 12 of the 15 first-place votes this week to retain the top spot in the poll with 145 points. That's only five points short of the maximum 150 points and well in front of the new No. 2 team, CBC, which finished with 109 points.

Last week Vianney earned only nine first-place votes and collected 139 points. Points are tabulated on a 10 through 1 format, with first-place votes worth 10 points each. Each coach votes for 10 teams.

Saturday's 3-0 win against a fellow top 10 team, Eureka, apparently strengthened Vianney's position in the poll. The Golden Griffins (5-1-1) got two goals from Josh Klimke and one from Chris Polite to give goal-tender John Kulba the shutout.

CBC and DeSmet (10-6) switched positions in the poll while St. Louis University High, the preseason favorite among coaches, stayed at No. 4.

The Cadets moved up to No. 2 thanks to their 2-1 win Thursday over defending Illinois champion Granite City, which dropped one spot to the No. 6 position. CBC ended their week with a 3-1-2 record with a 2-0 win Saturday over Rosary, Chris Santel and Bill Baumhoff scored for the Cadets.

DeSmet improved to 3-1-2 but fell in the poll due to CBC's win over Granite City. Meanwhile, the Junior Bills (2-2-1) still have their admirers on the panel.

SLUH received the three remaining first-place votes to finish with 99 points, 14 better than No. 5 Oakville (85).

Granite City rebounded from its loss to CBC with a 2-0 win Saturday over Quincy.

The new team to the top 10 is Parkway West, which won the eight-team Parkway Tournament at the St. Louis Soccer Park.

West knocked Hazelwood Central out of the poll and dropped Bethalto Civic Memorial to the No. 10 spot despite the Eagles owning a 9-0 record entering this week's CYC-Boys Guelker Tournament.

Golfers have record day

By Brian Henry
 Journal correspondent

GRANITE CITY — The Warrior golf team turned in a record performance in defeating Civic Memorial and Triad on Friday.

In shooting a 150, Granite City tied a team record set previously in 1989 and 1986. The Warriors got good outings from their top four finishers, Joe Brewer, Allen Ledbetter, Steve Rains and Bill McCormick. For the first time this season, the top four golfers on the scorecard shot below 40 on the nine hole course at Arlington. Brewer fired a 36 to lead the Warrior cause. He was followed by Ledbetter (37), Rains (38), and McCormick (39).

The Warriors raised their season mark to 11-5 as Civic Memorial finished 16 strokes off the pace (166) and Triad was a distant third, shooting a 184.

Granite City faced Belleville East and East St. Louis at Arlington on Tuesday and travel Thursday for a quad-match with O'Fallon, Mascoutah and Civic Memorial.

Marshall PTA holds meeting

The Marshall School PTA held its first meeting on Monday, Sept. 10, at 7 p.m. in the school gymnasium.

Vice president Jaima Jansen presided over the meeting. She introduced Maurine Sampson, field director for the River Bluffs Girl Scout Council. Sampson talked about the values of Brownie and Girl Scout troops. She asked for volunteer leaders for a continuation of these troops at Marshall.

PTA monthly meeting dates were announced: Oct. 15 (Open House), Nov. 19, Dec. 17, Jan. 14, Feb. 18, March 18, April 15 and May 20.

Several events have been scheduled: Fall Festival on Oct. 26 from 5 - 7:30 p.m.; Santa's Workshop on Dec. 11, 12, and 13; and School Picnic on May 17 in the afternoon. Other activities will be scheduled.

A special election for presidents was held. Pam Cahill was elected president. Other officers are Jaima Jansen, vice president; Barbara Bronnbauer, recording secretary; Arthalea Bugg, corresponding secretary; and Nancy Sanders-Miles, treasurer.

Marshall teachers were also introduced.

The program, "Your Child and the World of Reading," was presented by Nancy Sanders-Miles.

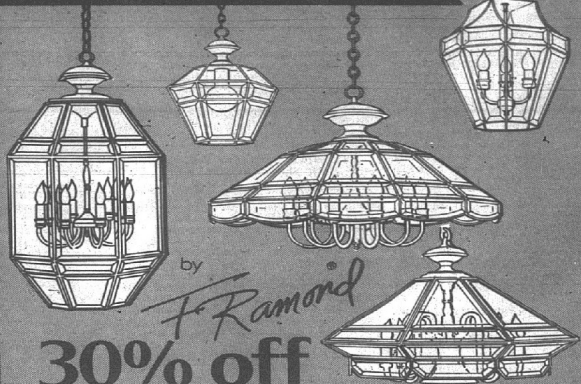

It consisted of a 10 minute video, "The World of Reading," for parents and an introduction to the newly acquired elementary reading books. Parents looked at both textbooks and workbooks. They received handouts that included tips and activities for parents to use to encourage their children to read. Also, a compilation of reading lists for each grade was available for parents.

The next general meeting is scheduled for Oct. 15, which will be open house. Entertainment will be provided by Showtime Express. Refreshments will be served and parents may tour the classrooms.

Home, Remodeling Show teeming with attractions

Hundreds of exhibits highlighting products, services and ideas for enhancing the comfort and enjoyment of at-home lifestyles will be in the spotlight at the 1990 Home and Remodeling Show, scheduled today, Wednesday, through Sunday, Sept. 19 to 21, at the Cervantes Convention Center, St. Louis.

Featuring more than 600 booths and 250 companies, the five-day show, sponsored by the Home Builders Association of Greater St. Louis, is the builders' largest fall home show to date.

Keeping in tune with this year's theme, "Need Help With Your Home?" show visitors will have plenty to take notes on to help with their remodeling needs. Packed with a variety of features, the show is designed to appeal to visitors of all ages and incomes.

Two new additions to the show this year are "It's a Miniature World" and "Home Show Talk Show."

"It's a Miniature World" will feature museum-quality custom-made doll houses and miniature buildings never before in a public exhibition. Members of the St. Louis Miniature Museum will display an entire city of stores and a village of houses—all in miniature. With a $1 donation to the Miniature Museum, an entry in a drawing for a "fantasy" doll house valued at $2,500 may be submitted.

The "Home Show Talk Show" will include a comedian, a musician and a handyman, all unusual and entertaining personalities, who have been brought together to create the "cast of this fun-filled and informative live attraction. Presented daily, the "Talk Show" will offer the homeowner and prospective homeowner practical solutions to a myriad of problems.

Another home show highlight will be presentations by Ms. Fix-It, Beverly DeJulio, who will appear at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday (Sept. 19) and Thursday (Sept. 20). DeJulio, who has appeared on national television talk shows, conducts seminars on home repair throughout the country.

The always-popular Kitchen and Bath Showcase will include displays by many of St. Louis' finest custom kitchen and bath dealers and distributors of fixtures and appliances. In addition, this year the showcase will include a new attraction. Exciting new products and colorful decorating items for complementing these areas of the home will be dramatically displayed along a 100-foot wall. This extensive display, which will include a $25,000 shower pavilion, is titled "Splashes of Color." Today's Kitchens and Baths, and is brought to the show by St. Louis Home Magazine.

Kitchen and bath design presentations are scheduled at various times throughout the five-day show. They are offered by the National Kitchen and Bath Association.

Branson, Mo., woodcarvers as well as various other craftsmen will return to the show for the third consecutive year with unique handcrafted items. In this area, called "Heirlooms of Tomorrow," custom furniture will be in abundance. Also in this area, nationally known woodcarver Pete Engler will demonstrate his carving techniques.

The annual "Woodworking Show and Competition" sponsored by West County Hardwoods and the Woodworkers' Guild is another returning attraction.

The show will cover the spectrum of home-related products and services, from stoves, fireplaces and barbecue grills to big-ticket items like security systems, home audio equipment, heating/cooling systems, replacement windows, doors, siding and roofing. With eight major spa dealers participating in the show, spas will be in abundance. Solutions for everything from wet basements to cracked concrete will be presented.

This year's show also boasts the "KMOX Home Fix-Up Time Giveaway," the largest prize giveaway in the history of the St. Louis home shows. This is a promotion of products to be given away by 19 show exhibitors chosen by KMOX radio. Details on the prizes, which together are valued at more than $25,000, are being aired by KMOX-AM (1120). At the show, visitors can register to win prizes ranging from a trip for two to Innsbruck, Austria, to a home audio entertainment system. The prizes will be on display in the lobby just outside the main exhibit hall of the show.

Home show hours are:
5 to 10 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday (Sept. 19 and 20);
Noon to 6 p.m. Friday and Saturday (Sept. 21 and 22);

Southwestern Adventure

Section C
WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1990
GRANITE CITY JOURNAL

By Janice Denham
Journal Food Editor

Heat up a summer party with a fiesta. Pull out the old serape, fill a brightly colored bowl with fresh flowers, hang a pinata and pass the tortillas for a celebration that may involve as much long-term planning as a wedding party or as little as a surprise overnight visit from an older sister.

Serve familiar Southwestern food—the likes of which include tacos, tortillas, fajitas (fab-HEE-tahs) and guacamole. Let the flavors permeate every part of the meal. Take the easy way out and use ready-to-heat-up seasonings. For those with less adventuresome taste buds, start by using half the required flavor additions. More can be added for intensity. Instant flavor includes canned products like tomatoes with chilies, taco sauce and picante sauce, packaged dry mixes and Monterey Jack cheese with chilies.

Take a tip from under the sombrero and juxtapose cold and hot flavors. For instance, a sour cream dip made for vegetables contrasts with other hot foods on a snack table; or, it can turn the hacienda into a warmly seasoned camp if an ingredient with instant piquant flavor is included. Rope in a bucking brand of flavor by adding a pinch or more of dry taco seasoning to a favorite chicken casserole recipe, particularly one that forms a sauce or has cheese in it.

A cool and simple dessert like Flan can be made ahead and will be welcomed by guests and home chef alike. First make a caramel by boiling down 2 cups granulated sugar and $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water until it becomes brown. Let the mixture cool before putting it into the bottom of a baking dish or individual custard cups. Prepare a favorite custard recipe, pour the mixture on top and bake as directed. Serve chilled.

Gazpacho, a chilled soup, is an excellent summer menu item. It cools diners and puts summer vegetables on their best behavior.

Cilantro is a new addition to the repertoire of flavors inspired by Southwestern cuisine. It looks much like parsley in the produce department, but is lighter green in color and has a flatter and broader leaf. A supermarket may call it a supermarket, suggesting a more cosmopolitan life than the cook has had, because it is a staple in both Asian and Latin cooking. Its dried seeds are known to home canners as coriander.

Cilantro does not keep long, but stays fresh longer if it is refrigerated with its stems in a glass of water. It adds pungency to sauces, is well known for its complement to tomatoes and has a slightly more bitter flavor than curly-leaved parsley.

Bright colors bring out the uninhibited side of fiesta-goers. Use hot shades of all colors. Paper flowers are an easy table addition. An outdoor evening party should have twinkling lights in the trees. Turn a sombrero upside down and fill it with potted flowers for an instant centerpiece.

Ranch Dip

- 1 pkg. ranch salad dressing mix
- 1 tsp. or more taco seasoning mix, if desired
- 1 carton (16 oz.) dairy sour cream

Combine ranch dressing mix and taco seasoning mix with sour cream. Chill several hours. Great with chips or raw vegetables.

Mexican Sombrero Salad

- 1 lb. ground beef
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup chopped onion
- 2 tbsp. chopped fresh cilantro, if desired
- 1 can (16 oz.) kidney beans, drained
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup French or Catalina salad dressing
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup water
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 4 cups shredded lettuce
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sliced green onion
- 2 cups (8 oz.) grated sharp cheddar cheese

Brown beef. Cook with onion and cilantro until onion is tender. Simmer with beans, salad dressing, water and chili powder 15 minutes. Combine lettuce and green onion. Add beef and half the cheese. Toss and sprinkle with remaining cheese.

To serve, let guests add dairy sour cream, taco sauce and chopped avocado as desired. Makes 12 servings.

Gazpacho

- 5 medium tomatoes, chopped
- 3 medium green peppers, chopped
- 3 medium cucumbers, chopped
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 1 can (10 oz.) diced tomatoes and green chilies
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cups tomato juice
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup oil
- 2 tsp. wine vinegar
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. lemon juice
- $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. pepper sauce

Set aside $\frac{1}{4}$ cup of each vegetable for garnish. Blend rest of tomatoes and green pepper, cucumber, onion, tomatoes and chilies, tomato juice, oil, vinegar, salt, lemon juice and pepper sauce in blender or food processor at high speed 15 seconds, blending in parts as necessary. Chill 2 hours. Serve with chopped vegetables as garnish. Makes 11 cups.

Mexican Straw Hats

- $1\frac{1}{2}$ lb. ground beef
- 1 can (10 oz.) tomatoes and green chilies, diced
- 1 can (10 oz.) tomato soup
- 2 cans (15 oz. each) pinto beans
- 1 large bag round or triangular corn chips
- 1 head lettuce, shredded
- 3 medium tomatoes, diced
- 4 cups (1 lb.) grated cheddar cheese
- 1 large onion, diced

Cook ground beef until red color is gone. Add canned tomatoes and green chilies and tomato soup. Stir in pinto beans. Cook 10 minutes.

Place chips, lettuce, meat mixture, fresh tomatoes, cheese and onion in individual dishes and serve buffet style. Serves up to 10 people.

Grilled California Chicken

- 1 tsp. minced fresh garlic
- 2 tbsp. olive oil
- 1 can (10 oz.) diced tomatoes and green chilies
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup orange juice
- 2 tsp. soy sauce
- $\frac{1}{4}$ tsp. chili powder
- 5 chicken breasts, boned, skinned
- Shredded cheese
- Avocado slices

Saute garlic in olive oil. Add tomatoes and chilies, orange juice, soy sauce and chili powder. Cook over medium heat 5 minutes, stirring often. After removing $\frac{1}{2}$ cup sauce to use for basting, keep rest of sauce warm.

Barbecue or broil chicken 5 to 10 minutes on each side or until done, basting chicken with sauce as it cooks. To serve, top each chicken breast with remaining warm sauce, shredded cheese and avocado slices. When barbecuing chicken with bones, baste with sauce last 15 to 20 minutes of cooking time.

A WISE CHOICE for the beef lover who wants to keep his heart healthy is lean round steak cooked with flavorful vegetables.

Lean beef steak limits fat while filling meaty appetites

Is there a place for steak on a low-fat diet? The answer is yes — and no.

If steak means a 16-ounce porterhouse or a thick ribeye steak, you are talking serious portions of saturated fat. The key to limiting fat and still enjoying beef is to trim the fat, choose cuts low in fat and limit portion sizes.

All steak, for example, is not equal in fat content. Here is a list of some popular steak cuts that are higher or lower in fat.

Less fat. More fat
Full cut round steak. Ribeye steak
Top round steak. Flank steak
Eye round steak. T-bone steak
Round tip steak. Porterhouse steak
Sirloin steak. Delmonico (club) steak
Tenderloin (filet mignon)
Strip steak (top loin)

None of these meats qualifies as a truly low-fat food. Those on the "less fat" list get about 42 percent or less of their calories from fat. Thus, it is still important to trim all visible fat before cooking and to drain off fat during and after cooking. An untrimmed 3-ounce serving of porterhouse steak, for example, contains 18 grams fat, but only 9 grams fat after trimming. Either ask the butcher to "close trim" fat or do it at home. Grades of beef are related to fat content within the meat, or marbling as it is called. "Prime" and "choice" grades have the highest fat content. "Select" is the next grade down, but it is lower in fat while it still offers cuts of beef that taste good.

The third element to enjoying beef and limiting fat is to limit portion size. The recommended serving size is 4 ounces of raw meat, which equals about 3 ounces after cooking. This may seem like a small portion to a heavy beef eater, so the key is to make the meat only one part of the meal, not the central focus. Include an extra serving of vegetables or a rice dish, to compensate for the smaller-sized meat portion.

Chinese Pepper Steak uses a lean round steak in a mild, but delicious, combination with vegetables. It makes an excellent part of a lower-fat meal when combined with brown rice and a spinach salad.

Chinese pepper steak

1 lb. top round steak, $\frac{1}{4}$ to 1 inch

- thick
- 1 tbsp. cornstarch
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. sugar
- $\frac{1}{2}$ tsp. ginger
- $\frac{1}{2}$ cup soy sauce
- 3 medium green peppers, cut in thin strips
- 3 small tomatoes, cut in wedges
- 2 tsp. oil
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- $\frac{1}{4}$ cup water

Partially freeze steak to firm, then slice it diagonally across grain in very thin strips.

In small dish, combine cornstarch, sugar, ginger and soy sauce. Place meat in medium bowl or pan. Pour cornstarch mixture over it. Toss well. Let sit 20 minutes.

Heat oil in frying pan or wok. Quickly brown beef strips one-third at a time. Remove from pan. Reduce heat. Cook green pepper, garlic and water in pan 3 to 6 minutes until pepper is tender-crisp. Stir in meat and tomatoes. Heat through.

Makes 4 servings, 13 gm. fat and 281 calories each.

Egg-citing contest scrambles recipes for national prizes

With only a few weeks to find a qualifier, the Missouri Egg Council is searching for entries, as well as kitchens, for a recipe to compete in the American Egg Board's National Egg Cooking Contest.

This is no hard-boiled contest because it is open to poachers. Recipes must be for main dishes which contain at least one egg per serving, not including garnish. Eggs may be used in any form—fried, scrambled, hard-cooked, poached, baked, etc.

The Missouri Egg Council will select a winner by Oct. 1, so all entries must be received at its office in Columbia by Tuesday, Sept. 25. The state entry will be passed along to the national contest, whose winners will be notified by Dec. 21. State winners need not be present when the national judging takes place.

The national event offers a $4,000 first prize, $2,000 second prize and $1,000 third prize for each of two divisions—junior high school which begins in grade 6 or 7 and an adult division.

Previously published recipes or past contest-winning recipes will be disqualified unless significant alterations have been made. The contest is not open to food professionals or relatives of American Egg Council employees.

Recipes will be judged on cre-

A little cooking tames broccoli flavor

Fresh broccoli should be blanched before freezing or stir-frying. Many people also enjoy it better on appetizer platters if it has been cooked slightly to tame the flavor a little and moderate its crunchiness.

To do this, toss it in boiling water for 3 minutes, drain and run cold water over it to stop the cooking. Or steam it on the stove top 5 minutes, then cool it quickly.

Because it keeps well, it is a good vegetable to store and an excellent choice for casseroles made on a weekend to cook during the week.

Select heads of broccoli that activity, taste appeal, appearance, ease of preparation and nutritional quality. Mail entries to: Missouri Egg Council, 319 Eastgate Building, Columbia, Mo. 65201, or fax them to (314) 874-1921. For more information, call Jo Manhart (314) 874-1920.

are bright green without yellowing and no little yellow flowers open. When cooking, split the stems lengthwise so they cook more evenly with the flowers.

Peanut butter dip

Combine 1/4 cup peanut butter and 2 tablespoons apple juice in a small bowl. Mix until smooth. Stir in 1 teaspoon raisins. Dip with fruit—like apples, pears, bananas—or vegetables or breadsticks.

6 new shows coming to Muny's Fox series

Six shows that never have been part of the Muny's Broadway Series at the Fox Theater highlight the 1990-91 series.

The season opens Oct. 9 through 14 with the first national tour of "The Fantasticks," the longest-running musical in New York City. Tony and Grammy awards winner Robert Goulet stars in this romantic fantasy that is celebrating its 30th anniversary.

"The Music of Andrew Lloyd Webber" runs from Dec. 4 through 9. This unique theatrical concert showcases the master composer's best hits from shows like "The Phantom of the Opera," "Cats," "Jesus Christ Superstar" and his current Broadway blockbuster "Aspects of Love."

"Big River," scheduled for Jan. 15 through 20, will feature the wit and humor of the Mark Twain novel "The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn," on which the musical is based. Former St. Louisan Rocco Landesman created this Broadway hit, which swept up seven Tony Awards in 1985 including best musical.

Tommy Tune returns in "Grand Hotel," Feb. 26 through March 3. Based on Vicki Baum's 1929 novel, this dazzling musical won five 1990 Tony Awards.

The musical "Ziegfeld" runs April 30 through May 5. This tribute to the legendary Florenz Ziegfeld Jr. is a flashback to the age of glamour, glitter and grandeur.

"Meet Me in St. Louis" will be shown at the Fox in the spring on dates to be announced. The show is set on the eve of the 1904 World's Fair in St. Louis.

Tickets for the six-show series range from $66 to $180 depending on location and performance.

Season tickets for the series can be purchased by calling (314) 361-1900, Ext. 330 or 331. Discounts are available for groups of 20 or more by calling (314) 361-1900, Ext. 308.

'Postcards' underachievers despite big names

"Postcards from the Edge" (R) is an underachieving mother-daughter drama-comedy that takes a candid look at the movie business.

The screenplay is by actress Carrie Fisher and based on her novel of the same title. Fisher said the screenplay, like the book, is not a thinly disguised rehash of her real life with her famous mother, entertainer Debbie Reynolds.

Meryl Streep plays actress Suzanne Vale, who lives in the shadow of her mother, Doris Mann, played by Shirley MacLaine. Mann, a self-promoted musical-comedy icon from the 1950s and '60s, made her mark primarily in Hollywood. She is a wellspring of advice for her daughter, who is trying to make a career in films, but hardly is a great parent.

Vale has a substance-abuse problem that almost kills her in the beginning of the film. After a short visit to the emergency room, where she has her stomach pumped in order to save her life, Vale wakes up in a drug rehabilitation center. Richard Dreyfus appears briefly as the doctor who cares for Vale in the emergency room.

In an effort to revive her sagging film career, Vale signs to work on a low-budget chase film in which she appears as a lady cop. Under the terms of her contract, a "responsible party" must provide housing and supervision on a day-to-day basis for Vale during the film's shooting schedule, assuring she will not revive her drug habit.

Mann volunteers to be the responsible party and "Postcards from the Edge" becomes the story of a mother and daughter trying to reconcile their differences and build a peaceful relationship.

The film has many name actors in minor roles. Gene Hackman appears as a director who has some understanding of Vale as a person. Dennis Quaid plays a philandering producer. Rob Reiner is the self-serving financier of the cop movie.

The film has a fast start, a sluggish middle and a final scene that arbitrarily manufactures an unrealistic ending. Direction by Mike Nichols is spasmodic and fails to give the script cohesion.

Rated R (drug use and language). Running time: 101 minutes. Rating guide: * excellent; , good; , average; *, poor.

Harry Hamm is entertainment editor for both KMOX-AM (1120) and the CBS Radio Network.

USO expects to feel peace dividend effect

A strategic retreat from Europe is expected to save billions of dollars in armed services costs, but it also is expected to cause problems for the James S. McDonnell USO at Lambert-St. Louis International Airport.

"Ours is the largest Airport USO," said Stuart Symington Jr., board chairman of the USO. "We're serving over 140,000 military visitors a year. Doubling this, or anything like it, particularly in a short period of time, has us very concerned."

into the USO as they wait for their flight departures. Some are here for a few hours; others, for days. From their headquarters at Scott's Military Airlift Command directs 90,000 people and more than 1,000 aircraft at 329 locations in 36 nations.

"The USO today," said Bruce B. Smith, the USO's president, "is far different than the days when we were a coffee canteen and held some dances. Then we were dealing only with service people. Now we are serving military families and happy to do so."

The United Service Organizations (USO) was founded in 1941 when President Franklin D. Roosevelt encouraged six civilian agencies to unite under one name. These groups traditionally provided wartime support for the military. They included the Jewish Welfare Board, The National Y, the Community Services, Salvation Army, Traveler's Aid, YMCA and YWCA.

The problem is that the military and their dependents are flown from all over the world to Scott Air Force Base by the U.S. Transportation Command and the Military Airlift Command. The people are then bused to Lambert for connections with the commercial airlines, pouring

Symington points out that the USO depends entirely on the services of its 500 volunteers (who work in shifts around the clock, 365 days a year), plus donations of money, food, drinks, and services from the private sector. All USO facilities are provided free, the cost per visitor being about $1 each. No financial aid is provided by the government. USO World Headquarters is in Washington, D.C., or the United Way. So the USO is now launching a fund raising campaign, spearheaded by Michael F. Shanahan, Jr., Bruce B. Smith, General Hansford T. Johnson, Stuart Symington, Jr., and Donald E. Fahay.

Army recruiters emphasize ability

Headlines on defense budget cuts and reductions in U.S. armed forces may lead some to believe that the doors to military opportunities are closing, but the Army says it is still hiring.

In fact, even as Army recruiters put the finishing touches on their current-year mission, planners at the Army's national recruiting headquarters, Fort Sheridan, Ill., are mapping out fiscal 1991 strategy for recruiters to sign up more men and women for active and reserve Army service.

The Army will be lower next year, we'll still need to replace the many thousands who leave after completing their initial term of service.

According to Lt. Col. Alex Angelle, the Army also wants to dispel any public perception that force reductions have caused entrance standards to be unreasonable. "Naturally," he said, "a reduced mission will narrow our focus toward the top end of the quality as the Army decreases in size."

As to how the Army plans to attract these "high-quality" people, Angelle said, "We'll be offering the kinds of incentives they want, such as—</
